The new Fresh Cap on Carlsberg bottles keep the beer tasting fresh for 15% longer compared to other caps by reducing oxidation from the bottle. Oxygen though synonymous to life, causes beer to lose its freshness and taste even faster. Carlsberg's new Fresh Cap contains an oxygen scavenger in the liner of the cap which actively absorbs oxygen - ensuring that the beer tastes fresher and better for longer.

The ink will help improve the recyclability of packaging as it does not contain paper fibers which cannot be reprocessed. A new coating of wax emulsion concentrate will also be applied to Carlsberg's refillable glass bottles which helps to double its lifetime. The coating reduces scuffing which extends the bottles' longevity, allowing them to look new and more scratch resistant longer, reducing the need for it to be replaced and disposed of easily.

Consumers will also notice a refresh in the brand's core design elements which were drawn directly from its rich heritage while reflecting a sleek and chic updated look. Carlsberg's refreshed Danish-inspired identity, which balances simplicity with contemporary design, is a testament to its constant strive to be better in all aspects of the brand. This is applied across its products,
